

A large rectangular area defined by a solid black border on the top, right, and bottom edges, and a dashed vertical line on the left edge. A horizontal dashed line crosses the entire width of the page at approximately one-third of the way down from the top, intersecting the vertical dashed line on the left and the right solid border.

